Ike, Dulles To Confer Next Week President Passes Critical Period

Denver, Oct. 8 (AP)—President Eisenhower's doctors found him "rested and cheerful" today as he passed without complications the important first milestone on the road to recovery.

The Denver White House put out the welcome mat for Vice President Nixon as the President continued to make normal progress from his heart attack.

"THE PRESIDENT had a good night's sleep of more than eight hours," a 7 a. m. (MST) medical bulletin said. "This morning he is feeling rested and cheerful. His condition continues to progress satisfactorily without complications."

In addition to the visit with Nixon, the President's doctors approved also his major business conference since his heart attack Sept. 24—a foreign policy meeting next Tuesday with Secretary of State Dulles.

It was Saturday two weeks ago that the president awakened in pain at the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. John S. Doud, around 2 a. m. (MST). His physician, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder later reported he suffered a heart attack.

THE PASSING this morning of the first two weeks—which physicians have described as the period of greatest danger after a seizure of coronary thrombosis—gave rise to hopes the President may be flown to his farm at Gettysburg, Pa., within 10 days to two weeks to begin a month of convalescence.

The vice president is flying in from Washington this afternoon for his first meeting with the President since Eisenhower's seizure. He is due about 1:30 p. m. (MST) with Dr. Paul Dudley White, Boston heart specialist; Maj. John Eisenhower, the President's son, and Sherman, the President's chief physician.

NIXON SAID before leaving from Washington that he hopes to announce early next week whether he will go ahead with his scheduled goodwill tour of the middle east next month. The trip had been announced before Eisenhower's illness.

However, the vice president declined to say whether the matter would be brought up during his meeting with Eisenhower, or to tell what else the two might discuss.

DR. WHITE, who examined the President personally after the attack, is returning for a new examination and a round of consultations with bedside doctors today and tomorrow.

It will be on the basis of these consultations that decisions will

Navy Will Launch Big Carrier Today

New York, Oct. 8 (AP)—Proudly proclaiming her the world's heaviest and most powerful warship, the Navy today launches the 60,000-ton supercarrier Saratoga.

Mrs. Charles S. Thomas, wife of the secretary of the navy, will smash a bottle of champagne against the big ship's bow in a ceremony at the New York naval shipyard in Brooklyn.

After being floated out of her drydock where she was built, the Saratoga, will need six more months of construction before she is ready to join the fleet.

The Saratoga is slightly heavier and has a completely new and more powerful propulsion plant than her sister ship the Forrestal, commissioned a week ago.

Two Hurt As Autos Overtaken Another Escapes Injury in Esopus

Two men were in area hospitals today as the result of two one-car accidents early this morning—both involving overtaken vehicles.

A third man had a narrow escape when he apparently fell asleep at the wheel of his car this morning on Route 4W about an eighth of a mile south of Esopus. He claimed no injuries.

Robert Gaye, 20, of Glenford, was reported in fair condition at Kingston Hospital with lacerations and other possible injuries suffered when his 1955 pickup truck blew a rear tire about 1:30 a. m. on old Route 28 about 300 feet from the Glenford Post Office and turned over.

DEPUTY Wesley O'Brien of the Ulster County sheriff's office, who lives nearby, heard the crash and rushed to the scene with his son, Leroy O'Brien, who operates the Mohican Express in Glenford.

Deputy O'Brien told the Freeman that young Gaye was upsidown in the cab in such a position that he felt skilled ambulance assistance was required to remove him. He called Schultz Ambulance of Kingston which rushed the injured youth to the hospital.

MR. O'BRIEN said that Gaye was traveling in a westerly direction when the tire blew out, causing him to lose control of the vehicle on a slippery pavement. The truck went into an embankment and turned upsidown, coming to rest diagonally across the road.

Bryan Seabury, 17 of Brookline suffered a broken leg about 2:30 a. m. when the car he was

Some State Areas Are Below Mark Po'keepsie Drop Reported at 150

Despite inclement weather registration yesterday in the city showed an increase of almost 600 over the first day in 1954, the last gubernatorial election year. It was an increase of 847 over 1953, the year of the last mayoralty election.

Total registration in the city's 20 districts was 2,987 as compared with 2,391 in 1954 and 2,140 in 1953.

POLLS WILL REMAIN open in the 13 city wards until 10 p. m. today. Other registration days are Friday, Oct. 14, 10 a. m. to 10 p. m., and Saturday, Oct. 15 (last day) 7 a. m. to 10 p. m.

Personal registration is not required in rural areas. However, persons are urged to make sure their names are on the rolls. Registration in county districts is scheduled today until 10 p. m., and Saturday, Oct. 15 from 1 p. m. to 10 p. m.

Those failing to register will not be eligible to vote for candidates of their choice next month.

THE INCREASE was not generally reflected throughout the state, according to The Associated Press, which reported weather was apparently a contributing factor to the low registration.

Poughkeepsie reported registration 350 less than two years ago for its last municipal election, and 150 less for the gubernatorial a year ago. In Nassau county where permanent registration is being installed, it was reported as very slow yesterday. Westchester county and New York city begin Monday.

Elmira reported a considerable increase over its last city election year. Good weather in that area and interest in the local campaign was given as the reason for the increase. Buffalo reported its lowest first day total since the 1930's.

KINGSTON registration by ward and district: First Ward, first district, 220; Second Ward, first district, 194; Second Ward, second district, 280; Third Ward, first district, 92; Third Ward, second district, 212; Fourth Ward, first district, 76; Fourth Ward, second district, 76. Peron Aides Held, Exile Fate Unknown

Buenos Aires, Argentina, Oct. 8 (AP)—Juan D. Peron, Argentina's deposed dictator, spent his 60th birthday today as a controversial exile in neighboring Paraguay. The new Argentina government is demanding that Paraguay boot him out of America because of his political remarks.

In the drive to call members of the old regime not granted exile to a stern accounting, the provisional government arrested four of Peron's former close associates as they left asylum in foreign embassies.

Idelfonso Cavagna Martinez, Peron's last foreign minister, voluntarily left the Paraguayan embassy and gave himself up to the authorities.

AIR FORCE Maj. Gen. Armando Mendez San Martin, who as education minister spearheaded the Peronista campaign against the Roman Catholic Church, left the Uruguayan embassy and went with his brother to the aeronautics ministry to give himself up.

Two Disagree On Spending For Roads

Albany, Oct. 7 (AP)—The superintendent of public works said Friday that over the last 24 years nearly twice as much money had been spent on roads in the state as has been collected in highway-user taxes.

John W. Johnson said that in the fiscal years 1932 through 1955 a total of $2,534,200,000 had been diverted from other state funds for highway purposes. During the period Johnson asserted income from highway-user taxes and federal aid totaled $3,521,800,000, while $6,056,000,000 was spent for highway purposes.

JOHNSON SAID that earmarking gasoline tax revenues exclusively for highways "would mean a radical reduction in overall highway expenditures."

Simultaneously, an official of the New York State Automobile Assn. issued a statement contending that Johnson was "juggling the figures" in efforts to deny that special motor fuel and vehicle taxes were diverted to non-highway use.

Oscar J. Brown of Syracuse, chairman of the state AAA's committee to defeat a proposed 750 million dollar highway bond issue, said that official U. S. Bureau of Public Roads figures showed the state had diverted more than a billion dollars since 1932.

THE BOND ISSUE proposal will be put before the voters in the Nov. 8 election.

The state AAA opposes the bond issue on the ground that

Truman Gives No Clear Hint of Backing Ave

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 8 (AP)—Harry Truman's rip-roaring political technique provided the battle plan today for New York Democrats eager to make inroads in heavily Republican upstate.

The former President, addressing a giant pre-campaign rally yesterday, told 2,000 party candidates for local office: "Go home and fight with all you have for the principles of the Democratic party."

CHEERS and whistles greeted the 71-year-old campaigner as he walked into a downtown armory with his host, Gov. Averell Harriman.

Truman referred in his talk to Harriman as "the great governor of New York" but gave no clear hint as to whether he would back Harriman for the party's presidential nomination next year.

Truman had said repeatedly that he favors Adlai Stevenson again. But Thursday in Boston he said his decision would become known at the convention next summer.

At the rally, looking as fit and jaunty as ever, Truman took swipes at the Eisenhower administration as one of "special privilege," said the federal government should be "restored to the people," and expressed surprise that a "farm boy from western Missouri" should be invited to New York to give a lesson in politics.

THE FORMER President and Mrs. Truman stayed overnight

U.S. Says Expert Teams Seeking Ways To Find Hidden Weapons, Control Arms

United Nations, N. Y., Oct. 8 (AP)—The UN disarmament committee wound up its talks last night with the announcement that the United States has put eight task forces to work on schemes to detect hidden nuclear weapons and find ways of controlling arms.

Harold E. Stassen, President Eisenhower's special envoy on disarmament, told the subcommittee a special group of scientists would take up the problem of concealed atomic and hydrogen bombs.

The known inability of present scientific instruments to locate shielded nuclear weapons has raised doubts in the subcommittee on the value of inspection plans.

Stassen said seven other teams headed by military men, industrialists and scientists would take up other inspection problems in an effort to smooth the way to disarmament.

Delegates from the United States, Britain, France, Canada and Russia issued formal statements to the windup meeting of the subcommittee which began its current series of 18 sessions Aug. 29. The only new points were brought up by the United States and Britain.

Britain's Minister of State Anthony Nutting proposed setting up an over-all group of five scientists representing each of the nations on the subcommittee to work on scientific ways of absolute detection of atomic devices.

Russia's Arkady Sobolev credited Eisenhower's mutual aerial inspection plan a sincere approach to disarmament controls, but expressed doubt such an exchange of information could go far towards stopping the arms race.

"It is clear," Sobolev declared, "that if only inspection measures are adopted, they would not cut arms and armaments to agreed levels, they would not eliminate the threat of a new war, and they would not reduce the economic burden."

Probe Is Started Of Crash

Laramie, Wyo., Oct. 8 (AP)—Investigators sifted through the shattered fragments of a four-engine plane on snow-crueted Medicine Bow Peak today seeking an explanation of the nation's worst commercial air lines crash which killed 66 Thursday.

W. A. Patterson, United Air Lines president, said the New York-to-San Francisco DC4 coach flight was 25 miles west of the established airway when it smashed into the 12,005 foot peak, 40 miles west of here in southern Wyoming.

"WHY THE AIRCRAFT was off-course is not known at this time," Patterson said. "The cause is being sought in a complete investigation now being conducted by the Civil Aeronautics Board and by our company."

Expert mountaineers continued recovering bodies from the rocky ledges and snow-filled crevasses. The bodies of two women and two infants were brought down from the crash scene yesterday.

Leaders of the 150 experienced mountain climbers said it would require several days to retrieve the bodies of the other 59 adult passengers, and three crew members.

THE BODIES are being lowered hundreds of yards by ropes and winches to trails where they are transported six miles to a University of Wyoming summer science lodge. There medical experts are attempting to identify the remains.

Many of the victims' next-of-kin were flown to Laramie by United and are taking part in the recovery operations at their own insistence.

Only expert Alpinists are allowed to negotiate the final few hundred yards up a nearly perpendicular cliff to the crash scene, about 75 feet from the summit of the peak. Bodies are strewn with the wreckage along a 500-yard scorched path.

The pilot, C. C. Cooke, 34, of Menlo Park, Calif., had flown the route hundreds of times during his 12 years service with United. The plane, which left New York Wednesday night, departed from Denver for Salt Lake City more than 80 minutes behind schedule.

THERE WAS speculation Cooke was trying to make up some of the time by taking a "short cut" across the Snowy range or turbulent winds pulled him off course. The plane left Denver at 6:33 a. m. (MST) and 30 minutes later smashed into the peak.

Officials said the plane was not overloaded. Its normal passenger load is 64 adults. It cruises at 240 miles an hour—presumably the speed it was going when it slammed into the peak.

THE CHAIRMAN of the CAB, Ross Ritzky, announced in Washington he would hold a public hearing on the tragedy "as soon as we have completed a thorough and detailed investigation." Ritzky added that "in spite of accidents such as this, the great safety record of U. S. air carriers continues to lead the world."

The crash toll exceeded by 8 the nation's previous worst commercial air disaster June 24, 1950 when a Northwest Air Lines DC4 crashed in Lake Michigan.

U. S. Says . . .

dens on the peoples."

Sobolev said there was an area of agreement on the arms question but added bluntly that it must come on Russia's own terms.

The Russian delegate recalled Russia's announced cut of 640,000 men in her armed forces and her agreement to return Porkkala naval base to Finland and suggested that the West show similar good faith in reducing its own forces.

Stassen said the Russians had left many questions unanswered on their own arms plans. Nutting went a step further and charged Sobolev had delayed the subcommittee's efforts by being "evasive and uncommunicative."

Canada's Paul Martin expressed regret the subcommittee had to halt its work for the foreign ministers' Geneva meeting just when the East-West gap appeared lessening.

France's Jules Moch said the Eisenhower plan was obscure because Stassen failed to make clear whether it was a prelude to actual disarmament measures.

The United States has said repeatedly the plan was only intended as a first step toward building confidence which would lead to disarmament.

In announcing the formation of special study groups, Stassen said a task force headed by Dr. Ernest O. Lawrence of the University of California radiation laboratories, "stands ready to consider any suggestion which any government or scientist may make to develop fully effective means of accounting for nuclear weapons material and the detection of nuclear weapons if they are concealed."

He said other groups would be headed up as follows:

Gen. James H. Doolittle, war hero and now vice president of Shell Oil Co.; designing methods for aerial inspection and reporting.

Vice Adm. Oswald S. Colclough, dean at George Washington University; control of navies and naval aircraft missiles.

Benjamin Fairless, U. S. Steel Corp.; the steel industry.

Walker C. Lesler, president of the Detroit Edison Co.; inspection and reporting methods for power and for industry in general.

Dr. Harold Moulting of the Brookings Institute; Inspection of budgets.

Dr. James B. Fish, Bell Telephone Laboratories; Communications inspection.

In the UN's top political committee, Britain, the United States and Australia called for a second international atomic peace conference within three years.

They based their appeal on the general acclaim accorded the first conference held in Geneva last August.

India, Yugoslavia and Burma also put in a resolution calling for another conference but suggested it be held at an "appropriate" date.

Sen. John O. Pastore (D-R.I.) who opened the atomic peace debate, said Russia had replied that it was not ready to accept an international atomic agency. He said the reply—details of which were not revealed—would be given careful consideration.

Russia has promised to contribute atomic materials to an atomic peace pool, but has never said whether it would join the plan, first brought before the UN assembly by President Eisenhower in December, 1953.

revenue from a proposed two-cent-gallon boost in the state gasoline tax could be used for purposes other than highway construction. The organization wants a constitutional amendment requiring that the money be used only for road work.

Johnson and other state officials favor the bond issue and oppose constitutional earmarking of additional revenue. They contend that such earmarking would force a rigid fiscal policy on the state.

Truman Gives

with the Harrimans at the executive mansion, Mrs. Truman, resting after the drive from Boston, did not attend the rally.

There were shouts of "give 'em hell, Harry" as Truman declared.

"I want to say to you the government now in the capital city of Washington is a special privileged government and nothing else."

"There is one theory of government that believes there is a class in the country that is born to rule," Truman said. " . . . They are special-privileged people, who believe that the rich ought to get richer and that by chance maybe some of that will filter down to the people down below."

"The (Democrats) don't believe in that sort of government," Truman declared.

He said he was "very anxious" to see the government "restored to the people."

Chopping both hands in a characteristic Truman gesture, he told the candidates:

"I want every single one of you Democratic candidates in Republican counties to go home and fight with all you have for the principles of the Democratic party."

Miss C. Mathews To Address Area Presbyterians

Miss Carolyn Mathews, Eastern area secretary for National Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A., will be the guest speaker and seminar leader at the morning session of the 76th semi-annual meeting of the North River Presbyterian Society Thursday, Oct. 13, at Pine Plains Presbyterian Church.

The morning session of the society meeting will be convened at 10 a. m. according to advice received from Mrs. William Carner, Cane, Presbyterian Society secretary.

MISS MATHEWS came to her present position as Eastern area secretary from Kansas City where she had served for two years in the newly established West Central area office of the Presbyterian Church.

Prior to this position of responsibility for National Missions projects as undertaken by the women of the church, Miss Mathews had served as field secretary and associate Central area secretary in Chicago. Miss Mathews has had a wide range of experience in mission work at home and abroad. While still a student she spent some months as community worker and director of religious education in the mountains of Virginia, and after graduation she returned for work in this same area.

THIS PERIOD OF work was followed by Christian service in a settlement house in Washington, D. C., where she found an unlimited opportunity for work among the underprivileged.

Later she took charge of the boarding department of the American Community School in Beirut, Syria, a school established for the children of missionaries in the Near East. The outbreak of the war brought Syria into the conflict and in the summer of 1941 Miss Mathews came home by way of India and the Far East. During the days of the war she served in various capacities as church worker in defense areas under war-time service in Portland, Ore., and in Hartford, Conn.

SHE SHARED in the work of linking the hundreds of newly-arrived and bewildered defense workers to local church fellowterested people of the community. Release time for religious instructions every Wednesday at 2:15 p. m. The next family night dinner will be held Nov. 17 at 6 p. m. Friends and members are invited. Infant baptism will be administered Oct. 23. Those interested may call the church office or Mrs. Hiram Whitney. Choir members will hold their annual rummage sale in Bethany hall Oct. 20 and 21. Articles may be left in the hall from Oct. 16 on, or if you wish them picked up, call Mrs. Michael Maxson or Mrs. Harry Rigby. Men's Club meets Wednesday, Oct. 12 at 6:30 p. m. ships and of providing religious life and activities for them in the housing projects where they were living.

During recent years, Miss Mathews has had extensive visits to rural parish and community work in the southern and central states, the Indian and Spanish-speaking fields in the south-west, Alaska and the coal-mining areas of West Virginia. In 1952 Miss Mathews was a member of the traveling seminar to Cuba where she reviewed and later reported upon the mission work carried on across the island.

Does The Bible CONTRADICT Itself?

You might think so, from the variety of meanings people take from it today.

Divorce and remarriage, for example, is widely prevalent among Christians. And some try to justify it by Holy Scripture. Yet Jesus said: "What God has joined together let no man put asunder" (Mark 10:2-12). And St. Paul tells us: "For the married woman is bound by law while her husband is alive... that a wife is not to depart from her husband; and if she departs she is to remain unmarried..." (Rom. 7:2-3).

Confession to a priest is scoffed at by many Christians. "We confess our sins to God," they say. But if Jesus wanted us to confess directly and privately to God, why did He say to the Apostles: "Receive ye the Holy Ghost; whose sins ye remit, they are remitted unto them; and whose sins ye retain they are retained" (John 20:21-23)?

The Bible says that Christ did establish a church. For He told his Apostle Simon: "... thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." But what church is it? Did Christ mean that just any church was His Church? Or did He give His Church marks by which men might recognize it?

All Christians agree that faith in Christ is absolutely essential to salvation. But some believe that faith is the only essential. Catholics believe the words of St. Paul that God "... will render to every man according to his deeds" (Rom. 2:6) and the words of Jesus: "Not every one that saith unto Me, Lord, Lord, shall enter the kingdom of heaven, but he that doeth the will of My Father" (Matt. 7:21).

Christians also take from the same words in the Bible, varied and often conflicting opinions on many things—for example: on the need for and effects of Baptism, and the real or symbolic Presence of Christ in the Eucharist. Is it any wonder that sincere people, trying to understand what Christ meant to tell us, are confused?

Catholics are often accused of opposing the Bible. This, of course, is ridiculous, for the Catholic Church is the mother of the Bible. And Catholic teachings are sometimes called "unscriptural," which will be found equally untrue by any one who takes the trouble to investigate.

We believe, in fact, that a correct understanding of Catholic teaching will convince you of this and bring new joy and understanding to all who truly seek Christ's way. We shall be happy to send you a free pamphlet on several Bible questions commonly misunderstood by many. It will come in a plain wrapper... and nobody will call on you. Write for Pamphlet No. KC-42.

YOUR NEWSPAPERBOY

Upon the shoulders of the boys of today will necessarily rest the manifold duties and responsibilities of tomorrow. Home, church and school each contributes vitally to the development of better boys to be the better men of tomorrow. These three great American institutions build character, religious stability and general knowledge. The principle each expounds needs only to be put to practical experience.

And today — National Newspaperboy Day — the nation's press and public salute the millions of boys who are doing exactly that.

Newspaperboys' activities give the opportunity for practical experience, supplementing the informative instructions of youth with actual experience in the principle of business. Newspaperboys learn to handle money, to keep accounts, to meet the public, to be courteous; they are taught the value of honesty, resourcefulness and self-reliance. The fulfillment of their newspaper merchants' responsibilities molds to their character traits of thrift, fidelity, determination, and service, and they develop a fine citizenship.

From among their ranks will emerge the leaders of tomorrow. This is no idle statement. One of the great rewards of working with the youth of America is to find former newspaperboys growing up to become the business and political leaders of our city, state and nation. At a recent businessmen's luncheon, of the 16 men present, 15 had once been newspaperboys.

This opportunity for early leadership training is offered to the youth of today as it was to the youth of yesterday, and it is hoped that more and more American boys will avail themselves of it, for newspaperboy experience means building better manhood beginning in boyhood.

CUTTING FIREWOOD

Happy the man, as winter approaches, who has a fireplace in his home. Twice blessed is he who has the privilege of cutting firewood for the burning.

Some may have doubts as to the latter cause for rejoicing. They may take pleasure in watching the wood burn, but none in the sweat and toil of cutting it. Yet that is half the fun.

The average town or city dweller orders firewood and it comes to him in a truck and is dumped in his driveway or back yard. All he has to do is stack it.

What he misses, if he gets his wood that way, is the feel of hewing it into shape for the fireplace. He loses out on the pleasure of exertion in the fresh autumn air, and the winey smell of sawdust as it spurts from the cut. He never knows the glorious feeling that comes as the blade nears breakthrough point at the bottom of the log.

The man who gets his wood like groceries may richly enjoy the fire on his hearth. But for the one who has cut his own wood there is added pleasure. When he places a chunk on the andirons he hefts it knowingly and remembers how it yielded to the hungry saw. And as it burns, this memory heightens the warmth and glow of the firelight.

ONE HOPEFUL INDICATION

We don't often get good news from the FBI in these crime-packed postwar years. But recently we did. Major crimes in the United States declined in the first six months of 1955.

It was the first improvement of that sort since 1948. In the intervening years, the figures have always headed upward.

The crime rate overall dropped about 1.4 per cent in U. S. cities. Robberies showed the biggest decline—14 per cent. Murders and nonnegligent manslaughter fell nearly 4 per cent.

The FBI doesn't want us to feel too cheerful about these figures. It pointed out that if present crime rates continue for the rest of the year, then 1955 will be the fourth year in a row in which more than

WITHOUT REASON

Mr. Gerard J. Tobin of Brooklyn, criticizing an article I wrote on the Landy Case, makes this point:

"... However, it is more likely that Landy is under a cloud, not for the conduct of his mother so much as for his association with her."

Precisely how would Mr. Tobin arrange this world so that a son does not have associations with his mother? After all, he is born of her body. She nurtures him in his infancy; she rears him through childhood; she loves him everlastingly. As Mr. Tobin's letter appears in "The Tablet," which is, I am convinced, the best Roman Catholic newspaper in this country, I assume that he is a Catholic—a religion which particularly stresses the role of motherhood. How can he possibly hold that a son should renounce his mother for whatever reason? Were she a drunkard, lying in the gutter, should he spit on her? Were she a trollop, should he not protect her?

Landy has gained his commission in the Navy and full investigation has cleared him of any relationship to subversion, but I am sure that the moral of this tale is more important than any of the individuals in it. For the moral is that a child owes an obligation to his parents that is moral and transcends politics and that in our civilization the errors of the parents, in the eyes of the law, must not be passed on to the children for punishment.

The point that Mr. Tobin misses is an essential of his faith, which apparently he does not permit to influence his thinking. Those who believe that man is endowed with free will must accept the corollary that there is a distinction between voluntary and involuntary association. The relations between parent and child are involuntary. They are ordained by the laws of nature. The child does not, of his own will, select his parents; he is born of them as a result of a normal biologic act, procreation, and their mutual relationship is ordained by the Nature Law. Beethoven did not choose his alcoholic father any more than Abraham Lincoln chose his mother.

It is different with voluntary association. Five boys go to college: one joins a football team; another the Newman Society; another the Hill Club; another the Debating Team; another the Young Communist League. These are voluntary actions; they are expressions of free will. No one in this country can force a young man to become a part of any of these organizations and what they represent. If later in life the person regrets the step he took as a youth, he should speak up, but if he persists in his associations, the inference would be fair that he prefers these associations, that they are meaningful for him, that he is prepared to defend them.

In the United States, where the Communist Party and its manifestations are now illegal, the young man who joined the Young Communist League is in peril because he voluntarily is guilty of unlawful associations tantamount to a conspiracy. If he argues that when he joined, the Communists were not engaged in illegal activities under the law, it can still be held that he should have discovered that they were engaged in a conspiracy against his country and that he associated with conspirators. He attended meetings and knows what occurred at them.

But that does not mean that his brother or sister, or his wife and children are equally culpable. Shall we say to Earl Browder's children: "Do you love and respect your father?" And if they answer, "Yes," shall we exclude them from our society despite the clear injunction of the Ten Commandments? Is there a limiting phrase in the Ten Commandments which stipulates the conditions under which a child shall honor his father and his mother? If there are such limitations, what are they? Surely it is not part of the Judaic-Christian faiths that the morality of the Bible is to be ignored for political reasons.

I fear that many ardent anti-Communists betray themselves when they fail to recognize that cannot renounce their own moral system in order to fight against Marxism. In fact, some of them would adopt Stalinist methods which even the Communists are abandoning. There is no strength in such limitations. They can only break down our society by destroying its virtues. COMMON MISTAKES IN CARE OF ELDERLY

I write frequently about elderly men and women because they form so large a percentage of our population, a percentage that is steadily increasing as the life-span is increasing. In recent years a new medical specialty has come into being called "geriatrics" or sometimes "gerontology." It is the scientific study of old age, its phenomena, diseases, etc. In spite of the increased attention being given to the problems of the elderly, it has been pointed out by Dr. F. D. Zeman in the English medical journal, The Practitioner, that there are four principal sources of error in the diagnosis and treatment of elderly persons. These are as follows:

1. A "defeatist" attitude on the part of the physician examining or treating an aged person, a feeling that because the person is old nothing much can be done for him, may lead to a harmful policy of "letting sleeping dogs lie" or "letting Nature take its course." We should always keep in mind that while there is life there is hope.

2. Physicians may tend too often to narrow the possibilities of what ails the aged person to hardening of the arteries to the heart and to the brain and chronic arthritis and perhaps overlook certain remedial conditions which can be detected only by careful observation and laboratory studies. Mistaken treatment seems to occur more often in elderly persons.

3. Too many quieting drugs, delaying of needed operations, withholding needed medications and failure to apply even the simplest psychotherapy (treatment of the mental and emotional factors involved) are the commonest errors.

4. Finally the altered reactions of the aged to disease may give rise to symptoms which do not seem typical of the condition which is nevertheless present.

Dr. Zeman suggests that in order to avoid error in the management of elderly patients, certain general suggestions can be made. The patient's individual background and personal problems must be understood. The aged person's good sense should be never underestimated and full attention should be given to all his complaints. With age there comes a tendency to accept pain and discomfort as inevitable, as part of the aging process, while this may not necessarily be so. Each patient must be examined thoroughly since minor conditions are often disclosed which can be remedied and which may cause more discomfort to the patient than serious disorders.

We all realize how many household accidents happen to the elderly and it should be the physician's task to see that preventive measures against such accidents are taken for the benefit of older people so that unnecessary suffering may be avoided.

Chronic Rheumatism and Arthritis

There are many helpful suggestions for sufferers from chronic rheumatism and arthritis in Dr. Barton's booklet of that name which may be obtained by sending 25 cents, to cover cost of handling and mailing, to The Bell Syndicate, Inc., in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, Post Office Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. "Anyone Can See I'm Not Aggressive"

Larsen's Washington News Notebook

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

NEA Staff Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — Now they are planning to drop small atomic bombs down oil wells to capture more of the oil, make canned beer taste like draft beer by irradiation, and manufacture artificial blood with a radioactive process.

These are just a few of the new ideas discussed at the recent meeting of the Atomic Industrial Forum here.

The Forum is a group of 360 industrial, research, educational, labor and government organizations banded together to swap the latest ideas in the burgeoning atomic energy field.

It was the first gathering of the peaceful atom brotherhood since the big international atomic powwow at Geneva last summer.

If there was any one apparent result of Geneva brought out at the meeting here it was the widespread belief that the use of atom-generated electricity is probably a little further in the future than the public has been led to believe.

TYPICAL OF THE NEW IDEAS discussed at the forum is the one for dropping small atomic bombs into old oil wells. It has been advanced by Dr. Eger V. Murphree, president of the Esso Research and Engineering Company. And there's nothing screwball about it.

After making a study for Esso, one of the nation's top nuclear scientists reported that the heat developed from a small atomic bomb dropped into an old oil well would free much of the oil now left in the ground by present production methods.

It would break down the heavy petroleum which now has to be left in the earth into lighter fluids which could be easily extracted.

In addition to the heat reaction, the shock would undoubtedly crack up the geological formations around the pool and release much oil that is now trapped.

At present Dr. Murphree reports, only about 40 per cent of the total petroleum is being extracted from all wells. They just can't get it out by any practical means.

One line of research to solve this problem probed the possibility of igniting huge underground fires to break up the heavy petroleum substances left below. This led to exploring the possibility of generating the heat by low-grade atomic explosions. And it looks like an encouraging idea, Esso researchers claim.

IF THIS TECHNIQUE turns out to be successful it's obvious that it would be worth untold billions of dollars by opening up all the old, played-out oil fields, plus doubling the known reserves.

The report on this study made for Esso contended that it would be safe for a man to stand on the ground a few feet from the top of the hole if the explosion was a mile underground.

The earth would absorb all of the heat and blast effect. It's likely that a kind of glass-lined cavern in the earth would be formed by the blast, which could then be tapped for the petroleum it contained.

The radiation contamination of the oil that would result is not believed to be an insurmountable problem.

Dr. Murphree also points out that atomic reactors might be used by big industries just for the heat they could produce. For example, he points out, the Baton Rouge refinery of the Standard Oil Company alone requires two and one-half million pounds of steam an hour. Other industries need comparable huge quantities of heat and steam which atomic reactors could produce.

THE IDEA of preserving food by radiation is not new. But the latest adaptation of the idea is in the pasteurization of beer by radiation before bottling, to eliminate the present heating process.

Draft beer does not have to be pasteurized, a fact which accounts for its better flavor, the experts say. If a method of pasteurization by radiation could be perfected so the beer would not have to be heated, it's believed that the bottled or canned product would have the draft beer flavor.

It is reported that the need to heat the beer for bottling is why the Budweiser Company has never bottled its Michelob draft beer.

A vast new field of industrial chemistry could result from studies aimed at such things as making plastics by using the effects of gamma ray on various substances.

It's possible that synthetic blood plasma could be made much more cheaply and better with a gamma radiation process. At present, certain chemicals which have to be used in the process are harmful to the human body. And it is an extremely difficult job to remove those chemicals after they have done their job in the plasma.

of the oil that would result is not believed to be an insurmountable problem.

Dr. Murphree also points out that atomic reactors might be used by big industries just for the heat they could produce. For example, he points out, the Baton Rouge refinery of the Standard Oil Company alone requires two and one-half million pounds of steam an hour. Other industries need comparable huge quantities of heat and steam which atomic reactors could produce.

THE IDEA of preserving food by radiation is not new. But the latest adaptation of the idea is in the pasteurization of beer by radiation before bottling, to eliminate the present heating process.

The Problem of Grown-Ups

How does the grown-up world look to a youngster? Did you ever stop to think about that? Children have their ideas—just as do adults. And when grown-ups interfere with their plans and projects it is a frustrating experience; just as it is with us when circumstances—or mortals—interfere with ours. What an obstacle grown-ups often are to the dreamed-up projects of little minds.

If a convention of toddlers were held and they talked over freely their problems I wonder how far down on the agenda the problem of adult opposition to infantile plans and projects would come. My guess is that no sooner would the diapered president lift the heavy gavel to pound for order than some tiny delegate would worm his way to his feet by holding on to the chair in front of him and ask for the privilege of the floor to present a problem—the problem of the adults with whom it is his lot to live. His remarks might run something like this: "Mr. President: I would like to enlist the help of this august body in solving the awful problem I have in living with my parents. They thwart my desires, they interfere with my plans, they ignore my requests, they don't adjust at all well to what I like. Everything they want 'goes'; everything I want has to stand aside. What can be done about it? Has this important diapered convention anything to offer by way of a constructive solution to my problem; something, that is, besides an anaemic resolution passed and spread on the minutes of this unrecognized body?" The whole house would cheer as the little delegate steadied himself back into his chair. And they would shout with one accord: "All of us have that problem. Let's give that first place on our agenda of business!"

The real truth of the matter is that the little folks can't do much about it. It is like a lot of other problems that exist in the world where the person who "feels" them is in no position to do much of anything about them.

There is always somewhat of a clash between the grown-ups and the growing-ups. The clash is not avoidable. For every parent realizes that children need to be disciplined. And discipline implies a clash of wills. It is not good for a child always to have his own way. That means his parents and his teachers have to "cross him up", as we sometimes say.

This process of "crossing up", however, ought to have as much understanding and sympathy and love about it as possible. Discipline which does not try to see, through the eyes of the imagination, how things look to the person who is receiving it, lacks something that is very vital.

Here's the poem which got me started along this line. It is by Blanche Sutherland who turns the world around for us so that we see it out of little eyes. "Grown-ups are to little boys Nuisances who don't like noise: Who don't know that vacant lots are for

Playing 'Cops and Robbers' or Building forts and digging caves, Or chasing, scalping Indian Braves. Grown-ups build their houses so That windows catch the balls you throw; And they're always in the way Of skates and scooters night and day. Sidewalks, Streets, are for grown-ups, and not, They say, for boys and pups. I'd like a place no grown-ups are for.

But Mom and Dad and Santa Claus and I forgot—the Ice-Cream man."

Legionnaires Arrive

For Annual Rally

Miami, Fla., Oct. 8 (AP)—Legionnaires by the thousands are pouring into the gold coast resort area for the opening session of a 37th annual convention Monday.

The delegates about 15,000 strong jammed into the hundreds of hotels and motels today. By Monday, it is estimated about 50,000 legionnaires and their guests will be on hand.

Legionnaires were politicking. The organization elects a national commander this year.

Of the several hopefuls, J. A. Wagner of Battle Creek, Mich., appeared to be leading. But his opponents are making campaigns. They include Thomas Paradise of New York, Truman C. Wold of Fargo, N. D., and W. C. Daniel of Danville, Va., a candidate for the top job last year.

Saugerties Special

Merchant Day Award Winner Not Present

An estimated gathering of nearly 1,000 persons lined the main intersection of Saugerties Friday night to hear the name of Mrs. Georgia Knoepfel of Cedar Grove called as the winner of the Merchants Appreciation Day award.

Mrs. Knoepfel, the wife of Arthur Knoepfel, would have won 40 per cent of the Treasure Chest amounting to $752 but was not present to answer to her name.

MISS DOROTHY RICE, recently acclaimed actress and Powers model, a guest of the Saugerties Area Chamber of Commerce which sponsors the event, selected the winning coupon.

This week's event was highlighted by the special observance of "Ladies Night" and the "glamour panel" of judges which included Miss Rice, who is the daughter of Mrs. Sonia Rice of Shady; Miss Crystal Jobst, Miss Saugerties of 1955 and Mrs. Irene Roming, vice president of the Chamber.

AN INNOVATION this week was the addition of two special awards made to the following: the coupon selection for the Treasure Chest.

A box of nylons donated by Amrod Department Store was awarded to Mrs. Mabel Stanley of 6 Russell street, Saugerties and a Kodak, donated by Tom Reynolds Photo Studio, was awarded to J. C. Gurin of 1 Finger street.

The special award selections were continued until two persons answered to their names and claimed the awards. Otto Bumb, treasurer of the Chamber served as master of ceremonies. The sound system which also offered music for the first time since the beginning of the weekly events, was donated through the courtesy of G. Mark Miller Radio and TV Store on Partition street.

THE "TREASURE CHEST" for next Friday's event to be staged from the balcony of the Exchange Hotel, corner of Main and Partition streets, Saugerties will amount to $854. There will also be two added awards which must be disposed of that night, and which are donated by J. J. Newberry and B. H. Delson Company.

SILVER FOX STOLE

"I have a beautiful silver fox stole that I am not getting enough wear of because I do not know when it may be correctly worn. The heads meet at the back and the bodies hang down in front over the shoulders and the tips of the tails nearly reach my knees. There are satin bands on the underneath side to slip my arms through to keep it in place. Is it equally correct to wear this stole with suits as well as in the evening?"

It is entirely proper to wear such a stole under all circumstances. It wouldn't ever be improper except in midsummer heat!

A First Principle of Etiquette

Dear Mrs. Post: While at a party at a friend's house, I rose when her mother entered the room to greet her daughter's friends. None of the boys rose, however, and I felt very conspicuous. In a situation of this kind, wouldn't it have been better to follow the others and remain seated rather than embarrass the others for not standing?

Answer: No, you were right in what you did, definitely!

Signing Office Letters

Dear Mrs. Post: We would appreciate your assistance on the following problem which came up in our office recently. We are two married women and in the course of business are sometimes required to sign letters. When signing our names at the bottom of these letters, is it correct to put Mrs. in parenthesis before our names, such as (Mrs.) Jane Doe, or do we sign Jane Doe and then add Mrs. John Jones in parentheses underneath?

Answer: Just plain "Jane Doe" would be best.

Self-Run Elevators No Aid to Crime

Automatic elevators, now being installed almost exclusively in new apartment houses, do not contribute to the incidence of crime, a survey shows.

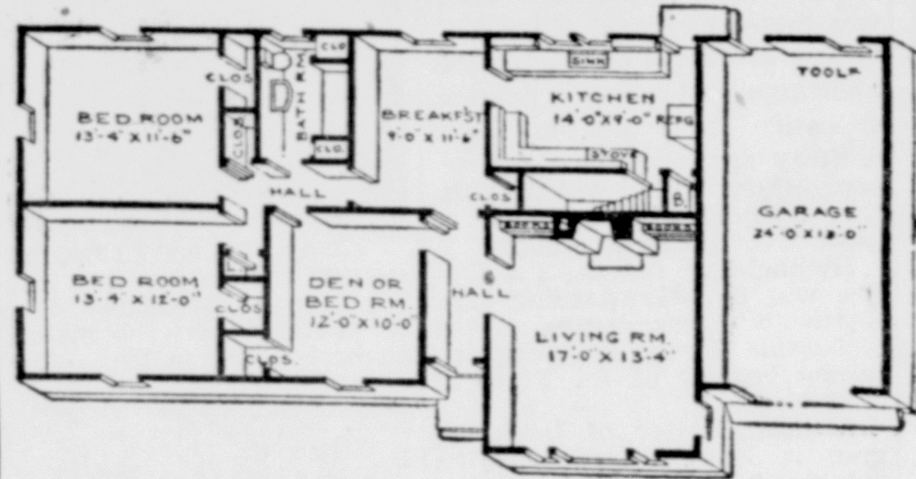

There is no significant difference between automatic and manually operated elevator apartments in crime reports, it was stated. The crime rate is highest in buildings with the wealthiest tenants and the most employees.

Over a 10-year period ending in 1951, a total of 2907 elevators were installed in New York city residential buildings. Of these 2807 were automatic and only 100 required a special operator.

Asbestos Siding

A selection of styles, as well as colors, is available in asbestos-cement siding shingles. Some models are textured with wood grain or tapered line design, while others are smooth surfaced, with colored granules applied so as to give a textured appearance. Asbestos siding shingles are produced with wavy, straight or staggered butt lines. The range of colors includes grays, greens, buffs, browns and white.

The FITCH

Well-Planned Modern Home

Rooms Six
Bedrooms Three Closets Nine
Cubage 29,800 ft.
Dimensions 66' x 25'

Because it contains three bedrooms, "The Fitch" can become home to the larger than average size family.

The attractively styled exterior can be finished with brick, as in the illustration above, or with masonry, shingles or a combination of shingles and masonry. Blinds add a homey charm to the house exterior while colored roofing adds a note of brightness.

Straight architectural lines are pleasingly varied by the protruding living room and by the slightly recessed front entry. Centered in the front wall of the living room is a handsome picture window that also adds appeal to the exterior appearance of "The Fitch" as well as to the interior of the living room.

Measuring 66' x 25' the house has a cubage of 29,800 feet. At least a 90-foot lot would be required if you plan to build "The Fitch." Simple landscaping will best serve to make the grounds and house one attractive unit by emphasizing the clean, simple yet handsome architecture of this one-story home.

Careful interior planning makes "The Fitch" a good looking, thoroughly comfortable home in which to relax, work or play. Two central hallways connect with all six rooms; hence, there's no reason to walk through any one room to reach another.

Both regular bedrooms have healthful cross ventilation and plenty of storage space. The third bedroom or den has one large window in its front wall and boasts a spacious closet. Throughout "The Fitch" there is an abundance of conveniently placed storage space including two closets in the bathroom and a broom closet in the kitchen.

While there is no dining room designated in the floor plan of "The Fitch" the 9' x 11' breakfast room actually can serve as a dining room for your family, and for your guests as well. Opening directly off the kitchen the breakfast room is situated so that the lady of the house will have but a short distance to cover whether she's serving a meal or clearing away afterwards.

No space is allotted for the laundry in the regular floor plan of "The Fitch." Therefore, your laundry equipment should be installed under the kitchen.

Home Repair Dos—Don'ts

SANDING A FLOOR

DO . . . realize that sanding the floor of an entire room is a rugged, not-to-be-recommended job unless you rent a floor sander.

DO . . . check the floor thoroughly for all defects that need attention before beginning the sanding.

DO . . . look particularly for protruding nail heads, splintered woods, cracks and squeaky boards.

DO . . . use coarse-grit paper for the first sanding and fine-grit paper for the second; when a floor is in very bad condition, a third sanding with medium-grit paper should be given between the other two.

DO . . . prevent gouging by starting the motor before the sandpaper touches the floor and not stopping it until the sandpaper has been lifted from the floor.

DON'T . . . pay for idle time; rent the sander only after you have completed all the pre-sanding operations.

DON'T . . . forget that a hand sander, a portable electric sander or an edge sander (usually rentable with the large floor sander) will reach into corners and other out-of-way places.

DON'T . . . fail to go over the floor with a vacuum cleaner, or similar machine, after the sanding has been completed; also, remove all dust from the woodwork where it may have settled.

DON'T . . . empty a sanding machine dust bag into a furnace or incinerator because of the possibility of a dust explosion.

House 'Extras' Cause Price to Skyrocket

As the walls of a new home rise prospective owners are often tempted to add "extras" as they see the work progress. These seem perfectly sensible, but their cost will cause the original price of the project to skyrocket unbelievably.

Therefore, in the interests of economy, all such additions must be considered as luxuries in the eyes of the prospective house owner who can't afford to have his expenses spiral.

Pumpkin Pine Finish Gives Antique Color

As a furniture wood pine has been gaining increasing favor. Many fine pieces are being finished to simulate antique or Early American furniture. One of these finishes, known as "pumpkin pine" is a mellow yellow color. One way of obtaining this finish is to apply a blend of orange shellac and light mahogany spirit stain. A final coat of straight orange shellac is applied before the finished surface is rubbed with 4/0 steel wool and waxed to a dull luster.

Control Fall Pests On House Plants

There are five insects which may attack house plants at this time of the year when they have been returned to the indoor garden. Examination with a magnifying glass may reveal aphids, red spiders, scale insects, white flies or mealy bugs clinging to the stems and undersides of leaves.

While regular spraying of the foliage with plain water is very helpful in controlling most of these pests, additional measures are sometimes needed. Nicotine sulphate and soap in solution may be sprayed on plants to eradicate aphids, white flies and mealy bugs. Several applications may be necessary and the window-sill gardener will find the project easier if potted plants are set in the bathtub or similar place for spraying.

Rotenone or pyrethrum will aid in control of red spiders, while washing foliage with a strong solution of nicotine sulphate and soap and then spraying with a normal-strength solution will prove an effective remedy for scale insects.

Know Right Techniques When Using Paintbrush

When using a brush to apply flat paint, use a semi-circular stroke, allowing the brush to leave the surface on the completed portion of the work. Varnishes and enamels are flowed on. In other words, plenty of material is carried on the brush and even strokes are used to maintain a uniform thickness. Shellac is applied directly in straight back and forth strokes.

Reports from the Forest Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, show that the timber harvest amounted to 70 million dollars for the year which ended June 30.

Defeat Forecast For Panther Dam

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Oct. 8 (AP)—Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck has predicted defeat for the so-called Panther Dam amendment to be placed before New York state voters next month.

A controversial subject for years, the amendment would authorize construction of a dam across the south branch of the Moose river, in the Adirondacks, by private interests.

HECK, a Republican from Schenectady, last night told a dinner of the New York State Conservation Council it has been demonstrated that the dam would not be primarily a flood control project.

"I seriously suggest," he said, "that some alternative measure be considered and passed. . . I pledge I will never allow commercialization of our forest preserve."

Opponents of the dam contend it would ruin 1,500 acres of public hunting and camping lands. The council's 22nd annual convention continued through today.

would have trouble getting from one hand to the other.

The main choice was between hearts and diamonds. The hearts were somewhat stronger, but South nevertheless decided in favor of diamonds. Even if South could develop four heart tricks, he would still have only three clubs and a spade and would therefore still need an additional trick in spades or diamonds to fulfill the game contract. If South went after the diamonds, however, he could make his contract with three diamonds and six top cards in the side suits.

For this reason South won the first trick with dummy's ace of clubs and immediately led a low diamond from the dummy. East could take the queen of diamonds and return a club, but South was now on safe ground. South won the second club with the king and returned the jack of diamonds to force out the ace. The contract was now assured with three diamonds, two hearts, three clubs, and a spade.

There Are Changes in Football Rules and Here Are Signals

Violation substitution rule.

Ineligible receiver downfield.

Personal foul.

Scrimmage rule infraction.

Fair catch.

Ineligible receiver touched ball.

KEEPING THEM POSTED—Veteran referee Irwin Weiss demonstrates six of the more important changes in the college football rules. Hands on top of the head is the signal for violation of the substitution rule, which now permits any and all players who start a quarter to return once at any time in the same period if withdrawn. The referee taps hand to head to indicate that an ineligible receiver is downfield. A right hand military salute covers personal fouls. Hands on hips mean an infraction of scrimmage rules. The hide-out or sleeper play is banned. All offensive players must be within 15 yards of the ball when it is declared ready for play. Hand raised straight over the referee's head is the signal for a fair catch. The receiver does not have to wave his hands from side to side as in previous years. Both hands tapping the shoulders means that an ineligible receiver has touched the ball. The new rule makes a center, guard or tackle eligible for a pass if he is the end man on the line of scrimmage, provided that no teammate in the background outflanks him. An end or back who drops back of the eligible man at the last instant cannot be to the outside of him. Add these to all the other rules and you really are confused.

Recreation Department Plans Biddy Basketball

League Would Be for Small Fry Between 8 and 12 Three New Leagues Set This Season

Three basketball leagues are being added to the winter program of the Kingston Recreation Department, Superintendent Andrew J. Murphy III made known today.

A Biddy League, for boys 8 through 12 years, and a Senior League for men over 30, are newcomers to the program. The City Men's League, absent from the scene for several seasons, will be reactivated.

"If present plans jell," Murphy said, "the Biddy League will be conducted along the same lines as Little League baseball, with tryouts, draft systems and other methods being used. Several local organizations have already indicated a willingness to sponsor teams."

THE DEPARTMENT is already in possession of special-size backboards, hoops and balls that are used in the Biddy style of play.

Persons interested in coaching a Biddy team are asked to contact Murphy at the Kingston Recreation Center, 97 Broadway, or to call Kingston 1682.

The "Over 30," or Senior League, will use modified rules, paramount of which will be the elimination of the fast break.

Last winter four teams played practice and benefit games under the modifications — the Lions Club, Kingston Patrolmen's Association, Uniformed Firemen's Association and American Legion Post 1298. Many players expressed a desire to play regularly, so the idea of a league for older men was born.

THE CITY MEN'S League will play at the Municipal Auditorium on evenings that do not conflict with the YMCA "A" circuit. Managers interested in entering teams are asked to contact Murphy.

Other leagues sponsored by the department include the Recreation Junior, Midget, and Girls' leagues.

At the season's end the Recreation Department and the YMCA again plan to sponsor the Kingston Basketball Tournament, which was highly successful in its first two tries.

Onteora 15-45 Winners Over Walkkill Runners

Onteora Central won the first five places to rout Walkkill Central, 15 to 40, in a cross country meet yesterday at Boiceville.

Glenn Glass was first across the line for the Indians in a 11:06 clocking over the muddy two-mile course that materially slowed running times.

Kurt Hahn and Howard Wendler of Onteora finished in a dead heat for second. Fourth place went to Howard Hopkins and Bob Glass was fifth. Robert Garrison was sixth, the first Walkkill runner to finish.

Coach Bernie Stahl of Onteora has announced a revised schedule for the remainder of the season, following the dropping of cross country by Highland and Saugerties.

The Indians will be host to a triangular meet with St. Patrick's of Newburgh and Kingston High next Thursday. An invitational meet is slated Oct. 20 at Cobleskill, followed by the UCAI meet at Walkkill on Oct. 27. The Boiceville harriers will compete in the Section 9 competition at Bear Mountain on Nov. 3.

Kerhonkson's Six-Man Squad Beats Marlboro Central, 27-20

Three brilliant all-round athletes collaborated to give Kerhonkson High its third straight six-man football victory, 27-20 over stubborn Marlboro Central, yesterday.

Werner Wustrau, a three-letter ace, scored on jaunts of six yards and 10 yards. Dick Steers raced 15 yards for a TD and combined with Johnny Mustion, the baseball pitcher, on a 40-yard pass play for the clincher.

Mustion also passed to Wustrau for one extra point and place kicked for two points.

IT WAS THE same story for Marlboro with the basketball and baseball aces doing the heavy damage.

Charlie Mandia was the stand-out with two long TD passes to Dick Collins, one a 50-yarder. After Kerhonkson's third touchdown, Mandia gathered in the next kickoff and raced 60 yards. Wustrau was outstanding on line smashes, Steers hitting from the outside and Mustion with passing for Kerhonkson. Mandia was pretty much the whole show for the losers.

Score by periods:

Kerhonkson	13	8	6	—27
Marlboro	0	6	6	—20

Tigers Sell Pony Franchise

Detroit, Oct. 8 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers have ended their six-year ownership of the Jamestown, N. Y., Falcons in the Class D Pony League.

The Tigers yesterday sold the club to two Jamestown businessmen, Robert Lundell, 39, and Jerry Lawson, 32, to be operated as a non-profit boys' home to be supported by organized baseball.

The Tigers said they would maintain a full working agreement with the Falcons in 1956 and would name the manager. Tony Lupien managed Jamestown to a seventh-place finish this year.

Lundell will be president and Lawson general manager.

SPORTS

By Charles J. Tiano Sports Editor

The "Summer" sports season persists although anybody in Brooklyn will tell you the World Series is long since over. The weekend schedule of non-football activities in the area reads like a sports calendar in the middle of August.

Two major golf events are scheduled Sunday—the Wiltwyck Country Club finals and Twaalfskill's Pro-Am. The City Softball League still maintains a hangover in the Shaughnessy playoffs. The Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster county stage their annual trapshoot Sunday. And if you want more, the Newburgh Dodge Jewels are playing a barnstorming major league all-star array at the Hill City.

Flotsam and Jetsam:

One of the happier football fans watching the telecast of the recent All-Star game in Chicago was Dick Hughes, son-in-law of P. Joseph Beicht of Port Jervis. Hughes, a professor at Ohio State the last two years, had Dave Leggett, Bobby Watkins and the kid with the magic toe, Tad Weed, in his class the past year. Football prowess seems to follow the Hughes family. While Dick was at the University of Wisconsin, the Badgers went to the Rose Bowl. He transferred to Ohio State and the Buckeyes landed in Pasadena. So here's a tip to the boys in the back room: Hughes started teaching at Boston College in September. Watch BC! . . . Larry Shurter of West Shokan, one-time idol at Rhinebeck Speedway, making a nice comeback at the Orange County Fair track.

Of Men and Mice:

Among the major leaguers scheduled to compete in the all-star game Sunday at Newburgh are Danny O'Connell, Milwaukee; Cal Abrams, Baltimore; Bill Glynn, Cleveland; Jack Meyer, Phillies; and Al Corwin, former New York Giant. . . . Dick Short and Ed Jurist will stage an exhibition of antique Dick and modern firearms at Dick Kahill's Rainbow Lodge in Mt. Tremper from Oct. 15 to Oct. 30. . . . Only the purists would deny Duke Snider rating with Ted Williams, Stan Musial, Joe DiMaggio and others of the clan. After watching the Dodge centerfielder day after day, you are impressed by his brute power. If he has a batting weakness, it's a tendency to go fishing for bad pitches occasionally, especially against left handers.

Murray Olderman quotes: "Bob Porterfield's expressed unhappiness with Charley Dessen ("I don't like him, and he doesn't like me") could touch off a chain explosion on the Senators. . . . rumored in open rebellion on of his own coaches the leading dissident. . . . It's true Oklahoma wants in the Southwest Conference, but Coach Bud Wilkinson no want. . . . wouldn't have those schedule softies any more. . . . The dearth of college football in New York may be solved by the imminent re-entrance of mammoth St. John's University of Brooklyn into varsity gridiron circles. . . . an eastern Notre Dame mayhap. Harry Van Hovenbergh, who died recently, was supposed to have been a member of Walter Camp's first All-America football team in 1901 with the Columbia University squad. His father was Dr. Henry Van Hovenbergh, prominent in this area for years.

Kingston basketball fans might get a chance to see fabulous Bevo Francis, late of Rio Grande College, before the new year.

Beau's 614 Tops Keglars

Rudy Beary emerged as the city's top kегler last night with a 614 slam in the No-Can-Do League. He topped games of 210, 214 and 190. Frank Norman's 244 was high single.

Notre Dame Sees Paul Hornung Apt Successor To Guglielmi

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR. (The Associated Press)

Notre Dame's particular penchant for producing outstanding quarterbacks still is in operation. This time it's Paul Hornung, who last night stamped himself as an apt replacement for the graduated All-America, Ralph Guglielmi, by directing the Fighting Irish to their third straight win with a 14-0 victory over Miami of Florida.

A crowd of 75,685—the largest ever in the Orange Bowl—saw Hornung take the Irish to the air for the first time this season. Only Coach Terry Brennan's stout line retained their unscathed record.

HORNUNG convinced the Hurricanes, who were stung by their own fumbles, with a pair of touchdown passes. An 11-yard flip to Gene Kapish put the Irish in the lead in the first minute of the second quarter. Then Hornung wrapped it up with a 32-yard toss to Aubrey Lewis in the third period.

It was the 11th straight victory for Brennan, in his second season at the Notre Dame helm, and cracked Miami's 10-game home field winning streak.

In another top game Friday night, once-beaten, UCLA ranked No. 7 behind the fifth place Irish in this week's Associated Press poll, bolstered its bid for another Pacific Coast Conference title by crushing previously unbeaten Oregon State 38-0.

SOUTHERN METHODIST won its first of the season while handing Missouri its fourth straight defeat 13-6; Houston beat Detroit in a Missouri Valley Conference contest 7-0, and The Citadel edged Richmond 14-12 for its first Southern Conference victory since 1953.

Michigan and Oklahoma figured in two of this afternoon's top attractions.

The Wolverines, ranked second in the nation, faced sixth-ranked Army at Ann Arbor while Oklahoma went up against Texas in their traditionally tough tussle in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas.

A capacity crowd of 97,239 bought tickets for the Michigan Army game at Ann Arbor, although a competing attraction at nearby East Lansing featured Michigan State against Stanford the club that upset Ohio State last week.

Oklahoma carried a 21-game winning streak, currently the longest in college football, into a game that Coach Bud Wilkinson called "our hardest so far this season" in spite of a comparatively unimpressive Texas record. The Sooners are rated No. 3 in the AP poll.

IN OTHER important inter-sectional games today, eighth-ranked Texas Christian took on Alabama. Rice entertained unbeaten Clemson, Nebraska was host to Texas A. and M., Penn State met Virginia in Richmond and unbeaten Colorado invaded Oregon.

For the other ranking teams, today's games were strictly fraternal strife. Top-rated Maryland, after establishing its reputation with victories over Missouri, UCLA and Baylor, entered Atlantic Coast Conference competition against battered Wake Forest. Georgia Tech, No. 4, met surprising Louisiana State; Wisconsin, No. 9, had it out with Purdue for the temporary Big Ten lead and Southern California battled Washington for first place in Pacific Coast Conference.

Hurricane Just Zephyr Stopping Lane in Sixth

Detroit, Oct. 8 (AP)—When the fight was over, the familiar cry of "We want Marciano" rang through Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson's dressing room.

But it had a hollow sound. "We want the big one now," cried Lippe Briedbart, Jackson's manager. "The Hurricane is ready."

Jackson, staring silently at the floor, just grunted.

The tireless New York Negro had just stopped the flabby beat Detroit in a Missouri Valley Conference contest 7-0, and The Citadel edged Richmond 14-12 for its first Southern Conference victory since 1953.

COUNTRY DANCE

Oddly enough the expression country dance has nothing to do with country or country folks. The phrase comes from the French word, contredanse, which means opposite and was applied to any dance in which the partners danced opposite each other.

DANIEL BOONE

Sometimes Dan'l Boone visited a saddler's shop on Franklin, Mo. While Dan'l talked of the frontier, an apprentice named Kit Carson listened.

In 1816, soldiers at Fort Osage, near where Kansas City now stands, admitted an old man who came up to their gate. "I'm Dan'l Boone," he said.

Boone stayed at the fort three weeks and complained of "crowded" conditions in Missouri. Then he went on. Legend says he reached the Yellowstone.

But there is no doubt that he started the young Kit Carson dreaming.

ousted Sultan Mohammed Ben Moulay Arafat. The first two men were picked weeks ago. The resident general was supposed to find a third man, but never has made a nomination. French Colonials in Morocco claim they have been promised by the resident general that there will be no regency council. The future of the government still is uncertain. Much political maneuvering is in progress. One thing which could help the government would be an announcement from Rabat that the regency council has been constituted. Newly-appointed Defense Minister Pierre Billotte went to Rabat yesterday to talk to Boyer De Latour. There were hopes Billotte might produce some change in the outlook.

Model Rail Show

Opens on Sunday

Sunday, Oct. 9, at 2:30 p. m. the 13th annual exhibition of the Kingston Model Railroad Club Inc. will open its doors to the public.

The exhibition will be open Sundays, Oct. 9 and 16, from 2:30 until 9:30 p. m., and week-end evenings from 7 to 9:30 p. m.

Located next to the West Shore freight depot, with car entrance on Susan street off Pine Grove avenue, the exhibit of the quarter-inch scale miniature railroad system has been growing every year. It is now housed in quarters that afford a miniature railroad exhibit stretching out for almost 100 feet and offering in minute detail the "countryside" found along the major railroads of the United States.

FEATURES of this year's show, in addition to new pieces of rolling stock, include scenic effects by Lawrence Casey and the first working block signal, installed by Claude Williams. The power system of the club has also been revamped to bring smoother operation of the tiny trains—a project that utilizes thousands of feet of wire and intricate wiring diagrams for the task it is to accomplish.

During past shows presented by the 18-year-old club, thousands of people have viewed the railroad system—many returning each year to see the "what's new" for the current year. Preparations this year also include a detailed project of how to construct miniature scenery, and indications of additional construction planned for the future of the railroad.

Rolling stock on the 541 Broadway layout is varied, offering the visitor the opportunity to see railroad equipment from the turn of the century through the modern-day diesel age.

Tillson

Tillson, Oct. 8—Mr. and Mrs. George Saunders of Queens Village were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Woolsey. Upon their return home, Mrs. E. Scheidecker, who had been visiting here for several days, accompanied them.

A special meeting of residents of Tillson was called Tuesday night by principal of the Tillson School, George Fernandez, to discuss the 1955-56 adult education program at the local school. Those present will canvass the local residents to determine which courses are most desired. A complete report on the adult education program will be given shortly, including dates, subjects and instructors.

The first in a series of 6 lessons of instruction in fire fighting technique, under the direction of Deputy Chief Harold A. Sanford of the Kingston Fire Department took place Monday evening at the Tillson firehall. A moving picture film was shown to the group as well as instruction given. The second session will be held next Monday, Oct. 10, at 7 p. m. The fire company asks many more firemen or members of the auxiliary to attend and gain the valuable information given. The course is open to any member of the local fire company or auxiliary.

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

Now that the country has started off on another binge, called the Guaranteed Annual Wage, a few observations are in order. A few companies have had something of the sort for a number of years. But note this, they are the manufacturers of staple consumers' goods, for which there is a steady year round demand, such as soap, meat and shoes. The items don't cost much, are soon used up, or worn out, and the styles stay much the same year after year. People can't postpone buying them. So employment remains steady.

It's different with durable goods like automobiles. In a pinch, you drive the old car another year, or two, or three. The same is true of capital goods like freight cars, machinery, or factory buildings. The Hormel Company, meat packers, have had a kind of G.A.W. for years. It works with them because they seldom HAVE TO USE IT, because the demand for meat is fairly steady. But Hormel says this:

"Our Company is wholly unable to redeem the money consideration in such a guarantee UNLESS we can keep our people ACTUALLY EMPLOYED. THE ENTIRE ASSET VALUE OF OUR COMPANY, CASHING IN EVERYTHING WE OWN, would only be sufficient to redeem a ten months' guarantee. ***"

Employees, who make durable goods like automobiles, steel and machines of all sorts, should look before they leap. The politician doesn't look, — just leaps.

Legion Auxiliary Plans Food Sale

Port Ewen, Oct. 8—At the recent meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary 1298, it was decided to have a "Foodless Food Sale" for the membership. Mrs. Eva Schussler was appointed chairman. Sale will start soon and deadline is Oct. 20. Each member will be contacted by mail.

Reports from various committees were given as follows:

Cancer Control—Ten pounds of material has been donated to the chairman, Mrs. Ethel Sleight Howard. Anyone having any material may contact the chairman. Any color can be used as long as material is clean and unstained.

Child Welfare—$86 worth of clothing, including shoes, shirts and baby clothes, have been donated to both veteran and non-veteran families. Any used or new clothing will be appreciated. Chairman, Mrs. Schussler.

Community Service—Forty hours was spent canvassing and writing cards for recent Chest X-ray survey. 37 hours of work on the "Little League Consensus" was also accomplished. Chairman, Mrs. Mary Dempsey. Historian—Mrs. Vivian Stadt read a report on auxiliary's accomplishments of last year. Membership—Betty Sanford, chairman, reports membership is coming in nicely.

Rehabilitation—A party under the sponsorship of Mrs. Beecher will be held at the town hall on Nov. 2. Members and friends invited.

Guests at the meeting included Mrs. Barbara Maynard and Mrs. Pansy Spalt who gave an interesting talk on the Campfire Girls. Following the discussion the members of the Auxiliary decided to sponsor this group. A social hour was enjoyed following the meeting.

Propose Series

With Russian Cage Squad

San Francisco, Oct. 8 (AP)—The Amateur Athletic Union will be asked "within the next week" to invite a Russian basketball team to visit colleges in this country, a San Francisco promoter said today.

Frank Walsh made that prediction after Dan Ferris, AAU executive secretary, declared at New York that reports of the trip were false and that "no one has requested us to extend an official invitation."

WALSH, who visited Russia last June, said the AAU had not been notified yet because "the schedule is just being coordinated." "It was a case of premature release of part of the schedule by the student newspaper at Harvard," Walsh continued. "Within the next week Ferris will have on his desk a request for approval of the games we've arranged."

So far the schedule, which will be increased, calls for the touring Russians to play at Springfield (Mass.) College Dec. 1, Harvard Dec. 3, Butler (Ind.) Dec. 10, and Kentucky Dec. 13. In addition, they are to play North Carolina State at Charlotte and Raleigh Dec. 7 and 8.

Released on Bail

A Kingston man who was arrested early today on a charge of driving while intoxicated was released under $100 bail for a hearing Monday morning when he was arraigned in City Court today. Kenneth Weaver, 29, of 57 Gage street, was arrested by Officer Hydract Armstrong at 4:12 a. m. on Gage street near the railroad crossing on the drunk driving charge. Arrested early yesterday afternoon on a speeding charge on Wilbur avenue, Martin J. Carr, 17, of 47 Abbey street, paid a $10 fine when he appeared in City Court today.

Ike, Dulles . . .

be made on the extent to which Eisenhower may gradually increase his schedule of conferences.

An uninterrupted series of medical bulletins this week reporting the President progressing "without complications," paved the way for the decision to set up Tuesday's conference with Dulles.

The conference, in the President's sickroom at Fitzsimons Army Hospital, will center around the agenda for the Geneva meeting of foreign ministers which Dulles will attend Oct. 27. Topics such as unification of Germany, European security, disarmament and increased east-west contacts are on the agenda.

The defendant, Frank Valentino, 35, of South street, Marlborough, admitted having placed wagers on March 4 and 18 while on the grounds of Stewart Air Force Base.

Also pleading guilty were Dominic DeStefano, 51, and Arthur Gash, 27, both of Newburgh.

They were arrested by FBI agents who were at the base investigating alleged gambling there.

When apprehended, they were in the midst of a game in which there was a kitty of about $500, according to Assistant U. S. Attorney Arnold G. Fraiman.

All three will be sentenced Oct. 28.
